JOGAMO is a social mobile gaming ecosystem providing a real skill gaming service for mobile devices. With JOGAMO owners of a mobile phone can play against others in easy and entertaining multiplayer games and win real money. Players can challenge friends or random players and participate in engaging tournaments.

JOGAMO is an integrated solution for real mobile online gaming, and encompasses several crucial breakthroughs ranging from having all games and functionality in a dynamic universal mobile client similar to a web service, to staging a standalone network and device platform independent system, with an unmatched mobile gaming experience. Now making it possible to transfer the on the Internet highly successful skill gaming business model to mobile devices worldwide.

The development of JOGAMO started in 2006 and is currently in Beta. The JOGAMO team consists of 11 skilled professionals and is prepared to launch the service in Q4, 2009.

G-TED AB, the company behind JOGAMO, is a subterranean company based in Stockholm with partner office in Barcelona, focusing on developing and staging a cutting edge network orientated mobile games service. The interest from leading marketing channels to partner with JOGAMO and launch the service has been huge. Thus G-TED is looking for additional investment to meet this market demand and realize the business opportunity.
